SOLUTIONS

LTE

LTE (4G) is a mobile communication standard. Users of the LTE network should see data speeds that are up to 10 times faster than users of the 3G network.

FIBRE

Fibre-optic communication is a method of transmitting information from one place to another by sending pulses of light through an optical fibre. Optical fibre is used by many telecommunications companies to transmit telephone signals and internet communication. Since nothing is faster than the speed of light, fibre technology is here to stay.
